

Recent years has witnessed unprecedented boom in social development, so that people are fully engaged in volumes of work. Among these, __ and _ are the most common method to cope with them. Some are in favor of the former, saying that __ while others support the latter due to _ . According to my observation/analysis, I would express my appreciation for ___ with reasons and details listed below.

Along with rapid process of urbanization and the surging number of population in present day and age, city dwellers have frequently witnessed / experienced / encountered / undergone a severe social problem: traffic jam. Actually, people of varied financial ability and schooling background may hold divergent perspectives regarding this, one of which is to charge traffic fees. Some drivers may assert that the policy is unreasonable, since it could raise their financial burden. Yet, I still contend that the merits of congestion charge far outweigh its demerits with the reasons and details listed below.

Researchers / investigators from Chinese Academy of Social Sciences conducted a survey in __ (). They drafted a list of questions centering on __ () and asked __ () to fill out the questionnaire. Among 2,000 _ who wrote out their answers, over half of them mentioned that _ ()

Initially, traffic fare could ease traffic pressure. To be specific, rising daily cost caused by congestion charge may make it possible for drivers to stop running cars in peak times, thus reducing the number of vehicles and then handling the problem above. On the contrary, if the policy does not conducted, current traffic situation will be from bad to worse. Take Singapore, a global metropolis, as an example. City dwellers had undergone severe traffic jam in the late 1960s. Fortunately, local government started to implement congestion charge to govern traffic problems. Namely, every private cars entering certain area of downtown will be imposed 5 dollars per day. After six months, according to official statistics from Singapore Transport Authority, the volume of traffic reduced 30 percent; meanwhile, the period of congestion dropped from 70 minutes to 30 minutes per day. Evidently, the policy is practical and effective.

Initially, the reason why _ is that _ . To be specific, B caused by A may make it possible for sb to do C, so that D and E. On the contrary, if not,.....Take _ as an example. Apparently/ evidently, if had done, would have done.
